Papa Haydn's London Debut.

On Haydn's arrival he first took up his abode at Bland's, the music publisher, at 45 Holborn, but soon afterward removed to rooms prepared for him at 18 Great Pultney street, the residence of Salomon. Near here, at Messrs. Broadwood's, is shown a room in which Haydn used to retire to compose. At Salomon's he would appear to have appreciated the arrangements made for his comfort, especially with regard to the cuisine, which was under the direction of a foreign chef. We find him, however, complaining of the late hour at which Londoners dined, though to us 6 o'clock might seem uncomfortably early. In March, 1791, he conducted the first of Salomon's concerts at the rooms in Hanover square, and in this and the following year he brought out the first six of his grand symphonies. For many years Salomon was among the foremost musicians in the metropolis. During Maria's first season in London he conducted and played solos at all her concerts. The Morning Chronicle called him a genius and asked whose violin playing approached nearer the human voice. When an old man, he was still full of enterprise, and took great interest in the foundation of the Philharmonic society.

The enthusiasm prevailed on the occasion of the first of the Salomon Haydn series of concerts. Mme. Storace sang, while Salomon led the orchestra as first violin, and Haydn presided at the pianoforte. —Gentleman's Magazine.

A Story of Hirsch.

One of the late Baron Hirsch's idiosyncrasies, says the London Daily Contributor, was somewhat of an embarrassment to the ladies with whom he was acquainted. Though some people might not have objected to it.

The baron had a fondness for playing cards with the ladies he met at country houses and losing money to them. Not a few sixpences either, but £10, £20, £50 at a sitting.

At first sight there may not seem anything very embarrassing in this. But the fact is that the baron would take pains to lose, and it was a common thing for onlookers to say that such and such a lady with whom he was playing bezoque, or whatever the game might be,
would be richer that evening by £50
or so.

But the baron would carefully stop, or play badly, just so as to leave his opponent the victor, and then what he really enjoyed was pulling out a few bank notes and passing them over.

Not a very vicious taste in a multimillionaire. Still, it is not every lady in society who can take what is practically a present of money without feeling uncomfortable.

The worst of it was that the baron was such a bad hand at deception.
Everybody knew his little game.

A Curiosity of Central Africa.

Professor Garner, during his travels in central Africa, has discovered many queer things, not in the least remarkable of which is a curious little animal belonging to the simian family.

This queer little beast, measuring about a foot in length, precisely resembles a lemur in miniature. It seems to confine itself almost entirely to a narrow tract of country running along by the equator. The natives, who have given it the name of "Ikanda," relate many remarkable stories about it.

Its hands and feet are its greatest peculiarities. The former precisely resemble those of a human being, with the exception that they lack an index finger.
The stump of this forefinger looks exactly as though it had been amputated.
The feet are also not unlike our own if it were not for two remarkable peculiarities. In the first place the great toes project at right angles to the fingers, while the number two differs in that it projects a claw.

Where Rainier Stone Comes From.
We often hear it remarked, and particularly after the eruption of a volcano, that rainier stone comes out to be plentiful and cheap, as quantities must have been ejected during the volcanic disturbance.
As a matter of fact, however, none of the white stone in general use is obtained from active volcanoes. It comes from the deposits of the article discovered in one or two quarters of the globe, the best of which is at present to be found in the island of Lipari, situated in the Tyrrhenian sea. The island is mountainous in character and consists of tuffs and lavas, and of highly siliceous volcanic products. The district where the stone is found is called Campo Bianco. Monte Pelato, 1,500 feet above the level of the sea.

After riding a considerable distance, partly along precipitous paths sufficiently dangerous to be interesting and partly through vineyards and over grassy plains, one almost comes suddenly upon a seemingly snow clad valley, inclosed by hills, also quite white, and the whole glaringly bright on a sunny day. Into these hills workmen are incessantly digging deep burrows, working within by candlelight. In their excavations they come across many lumps of pumice stone, which are placed in baskets, subsequently being conveyed along the valley to the seashore, where small boats are loaded and sail to the seaport near by, where the stone is sorted, packed and shipped to distant parts either by way of Messina or Leghorn.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

When a baby comes to the house real happiness comes. Worry and work and care and anxiety count for nothing against the smoothly daisies and the clinging touch of the little hands and the sound of the little voice. The highest function given to human beings is bringing healthy, happy
children into the world. Nothing equals
that—nothing com-
pensates for the loss of it. The woman who has not borne a child has never come to the real fullness of womanhood. Over thirty years ago the needs of women appealed to Dr. Pierce, now chief consulting physician to the Invalid Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. The result of his study improved by thirty years of practice is embodied in Dr. Pierce's Pavorian Prescription. It serves but one purpose. It strengthens, purifies and makes healthy the organs distinctly feminine. It gives weak women the strength and health necessary for the production of healthy children and it saves the bearing of the children easy. It is sure to cure any weakness or derangement peculiar to women; stops pain, soothes inflammation, strengthens, purifies, invigorates. Thousands of homes have been made happy by its use.
Thousands of letters like this one from Mrs. W. P. Carr, of Clinton, Allegheny Co., Pa., who writes: "I tried three doctors, and severe kinds of patent medicine, and found no relief.
My husband said, 'Try Dr. Pierce's medicine.' I told him I might as well throw his money in the fire as to try anything more. I had lost all hope. I had not taken more than half a bottle, when I could eat and sleep well. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and several vials of his 'Pelle's.' One year after I gave birth to a fine baby girl. I got along so much better than when my other child was born.
Three of my friends are taking your medicines,
and are improving." Truly yours, Mrs. W. P. Carr.

NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 12, 1896.

L. P. FISHER, NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING AGENT, 21 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, is our authorized agent. This paper is kept on file in his office.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM J. BRYAN,
OF NEBRASKA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
ARTHUR SEWALL
OF MAINE.

A McKinley Organ on Wool-Growing.

The San Francisco Bulletin has always been a Republican paper of the most radical type. Before it became a foregone conclusion that the gold trust, through Manager Hanna, had secured a death grip on the Republican party, the Bulletin spasmodically favored free coinage. Since McKinley was nominated on an anti-silver platform it has half-way apologized for what it said in favor of silver, and is now one of the most pronounced McKinley papers in the East or West. In its issue of Friday, August 7, 1896, it says:

"The agricultural industries of the United States need no artificial stimulus. They are doing well enough as it is, and join the average are yielding a fair return for honest labor. We are growing too much wheat and the sooner farmers see the necessity of reducing the acreage planted in wheat, and devoting their land to other uses, the better. That will help them more than trying to defeat the currency. In this State we are growing too much wool. Wool is the product of a thriftless community. Our soil is too valuable for sheep pasturage. There was wisdom as well as wit in John Randolph's remark that he would walk a mile to kick a sheep."

There is a sample of McKinleyism for our farmers and woolgrowers. The farmers are doing well enough as it is though they are advised to produce less wheat and more of something else, though the McKinley organ does not even suggest what. What do our farmers, who are selling wheat, onions and potatoes at less than it costs to produce them, think of that?

But the woolgrowers are the persons against whom the San Francisco McKinley organ seems to have a particular grudge. Wool, it tells them, is the product of a thriftless community. Then why should its production be encouraged by giving it an artificial price? New England manufacturers want cheap wool. They do not want it protected by a tariff, and it seems that the gold trust newspapers are taking the New England side of the question. As they have no hope of carrying the woolgrowing States of the West, they abandon the sheepmen to their fate and disclaim them with the remark that "wool is the product of a thriftless community."

Of course the few McKinley papers in Nevada will not quote the Bulletin's criticisms on the farming and woolgrowing industries. That might enable those of them who do not read the Bulletin, and believe in McKinleyism, to see the Ohio Napoleon in a different light, or, in other words, get the wool out of their eyes.

SINGLE AND DOUBLE STANDARD PARTIES

The issue of issues in the present political campaign is whether the United States shall coin silver and gold at the ratio of 16 grains of silver to 1 grain of gold, into legal tender money, and issue no more bonds in time of peace, or wait for the consent of foreign nations, which are making money under the present gold standard. The constitution of the United States empowers Congress "to coin money and regulate the value thereof." The Republican party and the Cleveland wing of the Democratic party throw the constitution overboard and say, We shall not coin our silver bullion into money until foreign nations give their consent. The Democratic, Populist and Silver parties say we should coin our own money regardless of what foreign nations may say on the subject. On this issue McKinley and Bryan go before the people of the United States for election. McKinley is supported by the gold gamblers, trusts and monopolies of the United States, and Bryan is supported by the masses of the people. McKinley has a campaign fund of several millions with which to hire imported speakers, like Bourke Cockran, at $250,000 for the campaign, and to purchase the editorial columns of a large number of newspapers. Bryan has no trust, monopoly or moneyed oligarchy at his back and has to rely upon dollar and fifty-cent contributions from working people to pay the necessary expenses of the campaign. Besides this great disadvantage some of the leaders of one of the three parties which nominated Bryan are suspected of treachery to the great cause of free coinage. It is thought that they have been allured by Hanna's bar! and are determined to create as much dissension as possible in the ranks of the Bryan men. Upon one pretext or another they will refuse to be satisfied and will endeavor to do all they can to prevent a union of all silver forces. These men are more dangerous than the outspoken advocates of McKinley and the gold standard. There are a few of them, but fortunately only a few, in Nevada, and the sincere, honest advocates of free coinage should not permit themselves to be used by them as McKinley auxiliaries.

LYING ABOUT BRYAN.

Senator Thurston of Nebraska, the creature of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, stated that the bonanza silver mine owners have maintained extensive bureaus with a corps of speakers and writers, and that William J. Bryan had been in receipt of a salary from them for some years. To ascertain what truth, if any, there might be in the assertion the Denver News sent out circulars to all the prominent mining men of the country asking if they knew of a bureau or organization of mine owners? If they believe it ever had existed? If Mr. Bryan ever received any salary or other remuneration for advocating bimetalism? and if they had ever before heard it observed or intimated that Mr. Bryan received such remuneration for advocating bimetalism or if they knew of any possible foundation for the charge?

Replies received by the News from seventeen prominent mine owners deny the existence of any bureau or organization of silver mine owners for the purposes alleged by Senator Thurston, and denounce as a falsehood the statement that Mr. Bryan has ever received a salary or any remuneration whatever from them for advocating the silver cause.

Mr. Thurston, who has been in the employ of the Union Pacific for years, and is now said to be under salary from Mark Hanna, will have to retract his allegation against Mr. Bryan or stand convicted of willfully misrepresenting the people's candidate for President of the United States.

Judge Welborn of the United States Circuit Court at Los Angeles has decided that the Government has the right to fix rates for transportation of troops or any other Government business, including the mails, over any railroad. A. H. Pile, who has had charge temporarily of the silver headquarters at Washington, was found drowned in the Potomac. When the body was found the shoes and hat were missing. The police have a theory that he was the victim of foul play, but the fact that his watch was found on his person indicates that robbery was not the motive. He had been drinking heavily.

The Democratic National Committee met in New York yesterday. Senator Gorman offered a resolution that the Chair appoint an Executive Committee of twenty-five and a Campaign Committee of a like number, and that the committee, in conjunction with the Chairman of the National Committee, select permanent headquarters. ## A Horrible Buck.

A curious and exceedingly unusual freak is reported by a deer hunter to Forest and Stream. The hunter was up in Wexford county, Mich., and got on a deer trail that had hoof marks plainly made by a buck. Almost all hunters or deer can tell a buck from a doe track. The deer did not have any horns, although a 2-year-old and weighing 150 pounds. Further, it never had any horns.

Does with horns, bucks with three horns, dozens of spikes and malformed horns have often been reported of Michigan and other American deer, but this is the first hornless American buck reported, although some European deer sometimes lack such weapons, but yet are able to whip the hounds out.

FINANCIAL CATECHISM.

Some Facts and Figures Relating to Gold and Silver by an Old-Time Republican.

1. What is bimetalism?
A. The equal legal treatment of the two metals, gold and silver, as money, at a given ratio of coinage.
2. What is meant by 16 to 1?
That in coining the two metals into money 16 oz. of silver are to be deemed equal to one oz. of gold.
3. What is the present commercial ratio of silver and gold bullion?
It is about 30 to 1.
4. What has caused the divergence between the coin and bullion value of silver?
The demonetization of silver in 1873 by this country and some of the nations of Europe.
5. Why was silver demonetized?
It was demonetized because of the desire to limit the supply of money, make money dearer, thus increase its purchasing power, and therefore to the advantage of money dealers, bondholders, creditor classes and those having fixed incomes.
6. Was not the demonetization of silver in 1873 due to its over-production as compared with gold?
It was not due to the over-production of silver, because (a) for many years prior to 1873 the world's production of gold had been about three times as great as that of silver, and (b) in 1873 silver bullion was at a premium of 3 per cent over gold.
7. How does the world's production of gold and silver for the last one hundred years compare with each other?
Between the years 1792 and 1892 the world's production of gold exceeded that of silver about 600 million dollars.
8. What is the ratio of the two metals as they exist by weight in the world to-day, available for money?
It is about 15 1/2 to 1, which means that there is only about sixteen times as many tons of silver in the world available for money as there are tons of gold.
9. What, therefore, is the natural ratio between silver and gold?
Sixteen to 1 is the natural ratio between silver and gold bullion and would manifestly be the present commercial ratio had there not been legal interference.
10. To whose advantage is it that nations have been induced to adopt the gold standard?
To the advantage of all creditor nations, especially England. Two hundred million people now use gold alone as redeemable money who in 1873 used both gold and silver; hence the constant rise in the power of gold (and money based on gold), which rise shows itself in the fall of prices of commodities.
11. If we had free coinage of silver would not this country become the "dumping ground" for silver from all nations?
There are, it is supposed, about four billion dollars of silver coin and bullion in the world, and if all of this should come here it would only give the United States a per capita of about $58, which is only a little more than we had of all kinds of money in the North at the close of the war.

Died—

In Empire, Nev., Tuesday, August 11, 1896, Clara Laws.
The above announcement will doubtless come as a shock to the many friends of Miss Clara Laws in Reno, although it was announced in yesterday morning's Journal that she was not expected to live. She passed through here day before yesterday on her way home. Friends who saw and assisted her from one train to the other felt then that her hours were numbered, yet did not think the summons would come so soon.
She will be remembered in Reno as a clerk in Mr. Brookins' store, and afterwards as bookkeeper for the Parry Bros. She was always cheerful and by her kindly disposition had endeared herself to all who knew her. She left here eight months ago to take a position in San Francisco, but was taken sick soon after reaching that city and steadily failed in health. When stricken with her last and fatal illness she struggled bravely for the young life that was so dear to her, but at last, seeing that she could not recover, made a last brave fight to reach her childhood home so that she could die surrounded by those she loved. She was granted her wish, but reached home none too soon, for death came in a few hours after her arrival.

An Argument for Free Coinage.

RENO, August 11, 1896.
EDITOR JOURNAL: I noticed in today's Gazette an illustration put forth of the relative value of silver and gold, by stating that a certain man buried in his barn $200 in gold and $200 in silver. The barn afterwards was burned and the bullion was melted. When he took it to the Treasury, for the $200 in silver he only received $120 and full value for the gold.
I see no other way of answering this question than by advising every voter in the United States to vote for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and then silver would be at par with gold, and in that case, no loss would be sustained, such as is described in the Gazette.
Yours, etc.,
JOHN HOGAN.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A REIGN OF TERROR.

Stay Laws May be Necessary to Prevent It.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—The extortioners expect to coerce the debtors into supporting McKinley by making them believe that if McKinley is defeated, the foreign and domestic money lenders will refuse further credit and call in their loans, which of course would bankrupt at least 95 per cent of the people of the United States, provided they would submit to such proceedings.

Mr. Editor, there are emergencies in the financial affairs of the people when certain laws governing the enforced collection of debts should be suspended. Money was intended to be used as a medium of exchange, but when the control of its supply is in the hands of unscrupulous pirates who use it to create panic and bring disaster to the people, it then becomes the patriotic duty of the people to resist, and, if necessary, suspend the laws that permit wholesale enforced collection of debts, which is another name for the confiscation of property.

The big financial institutions of the United States have frequently ignored the law in regard to banking. They have refused to pay depositors lawful money of the United States. They have kept open house for months when their reserve was far below the lawful limit. Through their clearing houses they have issued scores of millions of dollars of clearing house certificates, which was used as money and on which they evaded the tax. They even issued fractional currency in the form of clearing house certificates, some of which were of as small denomination as 25 cents.

It is a physical impossibility for the banks of the United States to pay their depositors in lawful money for the simple reason that the banks owe the depositors nearly three times as much lawful money as the United States contains, and what is true of the banks applies with much greater force to the people and corporations, for they owe more than twenty times the amount of lawful money in the United States and more than sixty times the amount of gold coin, which some people think is the only honest money with which to pay debts. The supply of this debt paying medium is already in the hands of the people and institutions who either hoard it or keep it to loan, and any sane person must concede that to call on the people to pay their debts in an article that is already cornered would result in a reign of terror and might lead to repudiation.

More About the Fair.

President Powning of the Agricultural Society has turned "Bicycle Day" of the Fair over to the Reno Wheelmen. An elaborate program will be arranged and there will be a number of novel features besides the bicycle races introduced.
The program of the day will begin with a grand street parade on wheels, and upon arriving at the track four ladies and four gentlemen, elegantly costumed and mounted on bikes, will perform the beautiful and intricate figures of the "Royal Lancers," in front of the grand stand. Hoefter, the greatest trick rider in the world, has been engaged, and will give an exhibition, performing feats that have never even been tried by any other rider, one of which is riding down a sixty-five ladder, placed at an angle of forty-five degrees. Mr. Hoefter will give three of his marvelous exhibitions during the week.
Other interesting bicycle events will follow in quick succession, the great wheel day ending in the evening with a grand carnival procession through the streets, and a magnificent electrical illumination on the river.

INDIAN DAY

Will bring 1,000 Indians, chosen from the Washoes, Putes, Shoshones and Pitt River tribes, painted and costumed in the peculiar and fantastic manner of their forefathers. There will be war dances, football games, footraces and pony races. In the latter 100 ponies will start. The aborigines will go into camp near the track and their mode of living will be of great interest to visitors.

The management has received encouragement from the railroad company, that special rates from San Francisco and Sacramento, good for ten days, will be granted. The rate from San Francisco to Reno and return will be $7.50 and from Sacramento $8.

Accommodations for visitors will be ample, and all corners may be assured of a week's entertainment that will be both enjoyable and profitable.

THE SILVER CONVENTION.

Meeting Called for the Selection of Delegates.

Pursuant to the order of the State Central Committee a meeting will be held at the court-house at 2 p. m. Saturday, the 22d instant, for the purpose of selecting ten delegates to the State Convention of the Silver party to be held at Elko, September 8th. An invitation is extended to all citizens of the county who favor the election of Bryan and endorse the principles he represents, to meet with the committee to select the delegates.

There are two counties in Nevada in which there is no distinctively Silver party local Central Committee. One of these is Washoe; the other White Pine. In White Pine the People's party is in full accord with the Silver party; in this county it is not. It, therefore, devolved upon the members of the State Committee resident in this county to provide for the election of delegates to the State Convention, and they have adopted the method indicated. Those desiring to attend the convention as delegates should attend the meeting or send their names to the committee with a pledge to attend the convention if chosen.

Meeting of Reno L. A. W.

The Reno Wheelmen held an enthusiastic meeting last night. President Powning of the Agricultural Society was present and a program consisting of fourteen bicycle events for "Bicycle Day" at the Fair was arranged. Purses and medals will be awarded in each race.
Five feet on the outside of the race track will be made into a bicycle path to be used as a training course. The events and other details will be directly under the supervision and management of the Reno Wheelmen and the contests under the rules of the L. A. W.

General Powning offered the wheelmen the necessary land for a bicycle track for which he will give a lease for a term of years. He also offered to furnish the tar and asphaltum necessary to cover the course.

The boys were assured of substantial financial support from Senator Jones and Congressman Newlands, and will begin clearing the land immediately, which will be enclosed in a high board fence and suitable buildings and a grand stand will be erected in the enclosure.
The location of the track will be near the head of University avenue.

North's Social Vagaries.

There has been a good deal of gossip in the English papers about the social vagaries of the late Colonel North, the "Nitrato King." When he returned to England with his millions, he bought a great estate at Eltham and filled the house with articles of luxury and all the modern appliances that riches can procure. His stables were full of thoroughbred horses, he had well stocked dog kennels, and his game preserves afforded grand sport for hundreds of persons every season. He used to go there on Friday and stay until Monday, keeping the place as crowded and as busy as a summer hotel. Every night he dined at the head of an immense table in the company of men and women who were invited there by such loose commands as "Come along and bring your friends," or "Come down and bring some nice people with you."

People in that part of Kent, or even well-dressed strangers driving that way from London, were in the habit of dropping in to luncheon without an invitation, and even without previous introduction. It was only necessary to say, "I am a friend of Lord So-and-so." On one occasion a member of that year's Oxford crew was eating quietly at about the middle of the lower table, not daring to speak to the pretty girl seated beside him, when he was startled by the colonel crying out from his end of the table, "I say, young fellow, if you don't kiss that girl next you I'll throw a banana at you."

Clothes or No Clothes?

A man who has been living among the natives on the west coast of Japan is advocating the abolition of clothes. All summer long he "moved in the best society" the place afforded. "I had only in a frock-shirt, a garment which it wore base flattery to call a sack. So garmented, he was both perpetually dressed and undressed, always ready for dinner or for a stroll on the beach or for a swim or to go to bed or to get up. The amount of time saved is remarkable. In a year it amounts to over two months. "Think," he exclaims, "how often we in America have had to tug because dressing is such a lot. If we were already dressed, we could at once and go about our business. But dressing takes us—getting into clothes and arranging them about us in accordance with the unreasoning demands of the public until we stand concerned in worrying 'tubes of cloth.' We disturb ourselves too much also when we go to bed. After an evening in our restricting garments, we are naturally much in need of repose, so we start off for bed, thinking how sweet will be the sleep that is upon us. But we go to bed in our clothes which must be removed, and the removing awakens us so thoroughly that the sleep we might have had is banished for an hour longer."—San Francisco Argonaut.

An Automatic Image of Satan.

There are many curiosities in Paris which it is not given to everybody to see. This in the old Cluny museum, on the Boulevard Saint Michel, there is a most curious monument of his satanic majesty, fringed with an artistically carved case. The exterior of this article of furniture, for such it is, is decorated with a finely painted head of the Saviour, but a leading spring the picture revealing heaven is replaced by the figure of the evil one. Satan is even inside a niche advancing with terrible grimaces, while at the same time a sort of musical box or auto organ inside the case emits blasphemous sounds.
The figure of Satan in the Museo Cluny is only shown with the greatest reluctance, as the conservators ordered it to be kept hidden, owing to the fact that in one occasion when it was being exhibited to the public a lady fainted away and nearly died of fright when she saw the devil advancing toward her.—Paris Letter.

A Wise Fish.

In Java there is a species of fish that carries a very useful gun with him wherever he goes. This queer fish is called the junculator and his weapon is a combination air and water gun, which he uses to provide him with the junculator. He has the power of sucking the mouth into a small round tube and sucking water through it. He is such a sportsman that when he observes a fish or a fly on a twig above the water he invariably knocks the fly or fish from his perch, even though the distance be five or six feet. There are several other varieties of these water gun fish, which are known as "sportsmen" and "gunners" on account of their queer habits.—St. Louis Republic.

Mark Hanna has been heard from on the Comstock. D. O. Mill's paper has placed McKinley and Hobart at the head of its columns. If the paper depended upon the patronage of the people, it could not afford to advocate the single gold standard in Nevada.
